

Journal of Food Science Research Announcement

We're pleased to bring you interesting information about 2019 year's "Journal of food science research Following substantial discussion among the board members and with Tsi Journals, we, the editors, are glad to announce the journal of food science research is shifting to a double-blind peer review process. Some of research has proven that double-blind reviewing, in which both the authors and reviewers stay anonymous to each other, enables ameliorate biases within the assessment manner. To put into effect the effectiveness of this measure, it is going to be mandatory. Stepping back, we should remember the fact that a key to the assessment process is that any manuscript should be judged completely on its content and benefit. In this light, and given that double-blind reviewing has been successfully carried out in some of different journals, we sense that our area have to include the technique as one which facilitates to boost the best requirements of medical peer overview and ethics.

Tsi Journals has controlled double blind reviewing for some of journals under their control, so we assume that implementation have to be smooth and simple. As for authors submitting manuscripts, instructions are supplied in the journal of food science research guide for Authors. If authors have questions or need assistance, we encourage them to ask the editors, and we will do our best to make the revel in as clean as possible in collaboration with the Tsi Journals support team. We would really like to inform that the worldwide Journal of Food science Research is now indexed within the magazine quotation reports (JCR) with an effect factor of 0.662 (this fall in 2018; ranked 118th of a hundred thirty five journals under the 'food technology and era' class).

Despite the fact that, Journal of Food science Research will remain an 'open get entry to' peer-reviewed journal, and as such, all posted opinions and articles are freely available on-line in perpetuity upon booklet thru which the writer(s) may want to gain wider readership.

But, in a continuous attempt to disseminate the medical findings greater successfully and to make certain best and timely booklet, all peer-reviewed reviews and articles universal on and after January 1st, 2019 for e-book in Journal of Food science Research will convey a piece of writing Processing price (APC) of USD$250 made payable either with the aid of the writer(s), funder(s), institution(s) or corporation(s) after peer-overview and before book.

The APC is constant irrespective of manuscript duration and web page quantity, and substantially covers the peer review, journal production, on line archiving, and duplicate modifying prices. However, Journal of Food science Research stays without Submission rate.

Journal of Food science Research Editorial would like to extend our appreciation at the unwavering support we received some of these years, and wish that you may preserve to recollect Journal of Food science Research because the device by using which you can flow into your research findings far and wide. Food studies is an Open get right of entry to journal that publishes critiques, authentic studies articles and short communications that specialize in food technological know-how and generation, food carrier control, vitamins, nutraceuticals, food innovation, and agriculture food technology.

The magazine welcomes papers inside the supposed scope as follows:

Food science and food chemistry

Food generation, food processing, and food engineering

Food protection and pleasant - microbiological and chemical

Sensory, conduct, patron behaviour/practice and desire

Nutrients and Dietetics

Nutraceuticals and practical food

Food provider management

Food trends, innovation and enterprise

Publish-harvest and agribusiness

Food safety

Food packaging

Research need to be of well-known hobby to the international network of food researchers.

Food research also publishes special issues of selected peer-reviewed papers from conferences, proceedings, seminars, meetings, and many others. Related to the intention and scope of the magazine.